Harley Nelson made this is New Zealand utility plane called a Pac 750 XL from mostly junk parts he had laying around the house. Harley says "its a. multiple purpose plane but naturally I will make a duster out of it." It has an 81" wing span and powered with a 4 stroke motor. Harley hopes to bring it to our first Screamin' Eagle meeting. "It's not as big as Carl's but a lot less work."

From a Southwest Airlines employee...

Welcome aboard Southwest Flight XXX to YYY. To operate your seatbelt, insert the metal tab into the buckle, and pull tight. It works just like every other seatbelt, and if you don't know how to operate one, you probably shouldn't be out in public unsupervised.

Think spring!

Hi Eagles. Not a whole lot of news this month but Harley Nelson came through with my request to send pictures of projects that are underway for the 2009 season. Thanks Harley! Based on what I see it looks like Wayne is in for another test flight this spring. Can you imagine it was constructed from junk parts that were lying around the shop or it is destined to be another “Duster?”. Harley is the most frugal man I know. I think that was kindly put right Harley? Again, thanks Harley for coming through otherwise there probably wouldn’t be this February newsletter. I would guess there are other Eagles who are working on projects that you could send me pictures of to include in the newsletter.

I’ve been busy doing some picture scanning for Pat O’Malley at the Jet Room for his new menu format. In addition I scanned a photo of the “City of Madison “ B-29 and one of Ernie Tresch , the personal pilot of General Eisenhower, who recently died and was a resident of Oregon, WI. Pat intends to rotate the pictures, including my stories, at the Jet Room. Right now he is displaying my story about Ernie Tresch. Stop by and check this out and take in some of their great food.

While I was not able to keep my Dad’s Gallery of Aviation intact, I am happy to be able to do little things like this to continue Dad’s legacy.

Hope you are all having a good Winter.
